
John Doe

1111 N. Chicago Ave
Chicago, Illinois, 60606
September March 4, 2018

Synchrony Financial
2020 BLP Finance Internship

As a current undergraduate student at DePaul University with a passion for Consumer Finance and Wealth Management and a high-performing student professional with over three years of traditional finance and project management experience, I am applying for the Synchrony BLP Finance internship position. After finding the position online and learning more about Synchrony's mission and culture through a few conversations with previous employees and interns at Synchrony, I know this position is the perfect match for me. I believe my background in working with finance management in financial analysis, credit underwriting, budget forecasting, expense reports, asset management, and client relations, along with my experience in marketing and sales across several industries, will allow me to excel on the BLP team and contribute to Synchrony's mission to provide customized financing and credit experience to leading organizations.

For the past four months, I have been working at OneMain Financial. Three months in the company's exemplary Summer Internship Program (PLSI), an internship experience that focuses on the credit underwriting techniques often seen in finance, while also preparing financial expense reports along with sales and lead generation. And the last month as a Branch Manager Trainee (BMT), comprised of learning how OneMain Financial operates at a management level. My diverse experiences at OneMain Financial have provided me with financial analysis, leadership, and credit underwriting techniques that I believe are directly applicable to the skillset needed for the Synchrony BLP Finance Internship. In addition, my experience in business networking has given me a solid footing in the development of new revenue to the company while also allowing me to build a diverse and well-rounded clientele base.

In parallel with my finance and business management experience is a knack for leadership. During my time as a community college student, I was chapter president for the Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society Chapter at Wilbur Wright College. As chapter president, I helped lead a team of five that promoted the values of inclusivity, scholarship, and service around campus. During my term as president, I implemented two leadership summits along with community wide events such as a fundraising drive which raised over $500 for back to school supplies for students and a student equity symposium, which provided a forum for students to voice their opinions over a number of topics pertaining to life on campus. Since then, my passion for leadership and mentoring has only grown through a variety of experiences and interests today, from being involved in the Debate Club at DePaul to being a Vice President for the Great Books Student Society, a club focused on celebrating the works of groundbreaking authors. It is this passion that drives me in my search for a job that connects my business management and finance experience with my interests in leadership & mentoring. I believe I've found that in the BLP Finance Internship at Synchrony and I would love the chance to speak further about the opportunity and my background.

Sincerely,

John Doe